New Fashions Score Hit in New York City

NEW YORK (AP) — All-American fashions, made to be worn in each of the 50 states, scored a smash hit as some 240 fashion editors from all sections of the country applauded the opening shows of a week of fall previews by New York designers.

Clothes shown today have a new ease, a new swagger, an air of casual sophistication that identifies the well-dressed American woman at home or abroad.

A highlight was a showing of American knit fashions by Almac, climaxed by the appearance of Miss America of 1959, Mary Ann Mobley, in a white cotton knit evening gown designed by

Asylum Riot Is Broken Up in Virginia

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP) — Twenty-five screaming mental patients broke up furniture, smashed windows and surged into the yard at Central State Hospital Monday night, but the disturbance was quickly ended.

Supt. J. K. Ogden said he believed the patients staged the 45-minute riot to draw attention to grievances rather than to escape.

It began when three patients from Ward No. 4 overpowered two attendants and took their keys. The patients unlocked Ward No. 2. The patients rushed through the corridors and into a yard surrounding by a 16-foot wall.

Dr. Wilbur Hammon, in charge of the maximum security building, persuaded them to return after assuring them they would not be punished and that they would get a hearing.

Each fashion shown, ranging from casual separator to formal evening gowns, was dedicated to one of the United States, with special bows to Alaska and Hawaii.

N.L.R. Moves to Buy Water Facilities

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The North Little Rock city council last night passed a $4,600,000 water bond ordinance, then voted to pay cost of printing petitions which could bring a referendum vote on the issue.

The council approved the bond issue to buy the water distribution system 4-2. The vote on printing the petitions was 5-3.

If enough signers are obtained on the petitions within 30 days, an election would be set on the proposition. Otherwise the bond issue will take effect without a referendum.

Israel bought four seas — Sea of Galilee, Dead Sea.

Mrs. J. B. Ingram, Jr., with Mrs. A. J. Rhodes and Miss Mary Louise Copeland as co-hostesses.

Williams, Musial Not 'Through'

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—If Ted Williams and Stan Musial, two of the greatest hitters of our time, decide to call it quits at the end of the 1959 season, it will not be because they feel they no longer can hit big league pitching.

The two future Hall of Famers made it plain in interviews during the All-Star break in Pittsburgh that they are far from washed up, as has been indicated in some quarters.

The 40-year-old Williams, fiercely proud of his reputation as the most feared hitter in baseball for the past 16 years, refused to subscribe to the theory of slowed reflexes, lost timing and inability to cope with the new crop of fine young pitchers in the American

The increase of dangers accompanying the boom in boating was demonstrated tragically by the deaths of at least 60 persons in boating accidents during the nation's two-day Independence Day celebration.

Collisions were rare in the fatal accidents, but the crash of a cabin cruiser and an auto ferry was the holiday's most serious accident, killing six occupants of the cruiser. The collision occurred Saturday on Lake Michigan off Muskegon, Mich.

Four of eight persons in a home-made motor boat died when the boat capsized in Eimer Lake near Corinth, N. Y.

There were several other boating accidents which killed more than one person.

Signals Stolen by TV in Ball Games, Charge

TV-BASEBALL — SPORTS

BOSTON (AP)—Television, which has been blamed with many of baseball's problems, has a brand new fault laid at its door—a new angle to the old game of stealing the catchers' signals.

But TV, let it be pointed out, immediately took steps to see that the situation is corrected.

It all got started in the television broadcasts of the New York Yankees-Boston Red Sox games last weekend. An 80-inch lens was mounted in the center field stands.

That brought the catcher's signals right into the living room, offering viewers a very clear picture of his calls. It kicked up a minor row.

Just why it all got started after the weekend games, no one seems to know. Tom Gallery, director of sports for NBC, said the cameras had been used for about eight games, including the All-Star game in Pittsburgh, before the Yankee-Red Sox affair.

Gallery said Monday in New York use of the camera would be discontinued at the request of Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

He said Frick suggested the possibility of a club putting a TV receiver in a dugout and then getting a line on what pitches would be thrown.

The Yankees and Red Sox along with other baseball men, didn't think much of the idea.

Yanks Lose 5 Straight to Boston

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The "10 telling days" are over in the American League race, and if they failed to tell the whole story, they told a horror tale for the Detroit Tigers and New York Yankees.

It all began June 30, when the Cleveland Indians were first in one game over the Chicago White Sox. Baltimore was third, 2½ games back Detroit and New York were tied for fourth, trailing by four games.

In the 10 playing days over that span—during which two of the three western contenders, Cleveland, Chicago and Detroit, were at each other's throats every day—Cleveland came off with an 8-4 record. So did the White Sox, still second and a game behind after splitting two games with the Indians.

The Indians and White Sox moved in tandem, but the point is they moved, picking up two games on Baltimore and 3½ on both Detroit and New York. The Orioles were 6-6 for the 10 days.

The Yankees, confused, bothered and bewilderingly defending champions, have lost five straight—all at Boston. The Red Sox pulled off the five-day sweep in the only game scheduled Monday with a 13-3 send-off that chased the champs home for an eight-game stand against Cleveland and Chicago.

In the National League, Milwaukee whipped San Francisco 3-0 on Warren Spahn's six-hit pitching and Ed Matthews' two-run homer, reclaiming second place and closing within .002 percentage points of the first place Giants.

Los Angeles, a game behind, slipped from second to third with a 13-5 loss at Cincinnati in the only other game scheduled.

The Red Sox, frolicking through the Yankee series with 58 hits and 50 runs, put way the sweep with a four-run first inning, then chukled through a nine-run sixth—their biggest inning of the season.

Jackie Jensen's three-run homer, his 30th triggered the first inning against loser Don Larsen after the Yankees had taken a 2-0 lead on Yogi Berra's 10th home run.

DIZ CALLED HIS PITCHES
NEW YORK (NEA) — One day in 1934 Dizzy Dean of the St. Louis Cardinals, who won 30 games that season, went to call on his pals in the Brooklyn locker room.

Dean was ordered out by Casey Stengel.

Dizzy was offended by Manager Stengel's command and said, "I don't wanna leave. There's no rule says I can't visit here."

There wasn't at the time, but Stengel wanted Dean out of the clubhouse.

"We're gonna have our meeting now," Case said, "and talk over how we're going to play the game."

"Go right ahead," invited Dizzy. "I'd like to hear."

"You can't," snorted Stengel. "You're on the other team. Besides, you're pitching against us today."

"Like to know how I'm going to pitch to every one of your guys?" Dizzy asked.

He went down the entire Dodger batting order, calling his shots.

"Don't get the idea you're gonna beat me, just because you know how I'm pitching," Dizzy said.

He did, 5-3, allowing seven hits.

Braves Wreck Giants With Series Sweep

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The San Francisco Giants' latest bid for a breakthrough in the battle for the National League pennant is a shambles, torn down once more by Milwaukee's three-man wrecking crew—Burdette, Spahn & Mathews.

Just two days ago, the Giants had a 1½-game hold on first place and Milwaukee was third, 2½ games back. Now the Braves are second, just .002 percentage points behind after a two-game sweep put away by the pitching of Lew Burdette and Warren Spahn and Ed Matthews' slugging.

Mathews' home run and sacrifice fly, good for four RBI, backed Burdette for a 4-2 victory Sunday.

Monday night, Mathews two-run homer backed Spahn's six-hit pitching for a 3-0 decision over the Giants, although the Braves managed only four hits.

That leap-frogged the Braves over Los Angeles into second as the Dodgers slipped to third with a 13-5 defeat at Cincinnati in the only other NL game scheduled.

In the American League, Boston walloped New York 13-3 for a five-game sweep over the Yankees in the lone game scheduled.

The Braves now stand 8½ over the Giants for the season. Spahn and Burdette each have three victories. Mathews has batted an even .300 against San Francisco, hitting six homers, driving in 17 runs and supplying the clincher in five of the nine victories.

Frank Robinson twice powered the Reds into the lead with homers as Cincinnati pulled off a two-game sweep over the Dodgers. Gus Bell also homered for the Reds, and drove in four runs, as reliever Brooks Lawrence gained his first victory in two months.

After the Dodgers had tied the score with three runs in the third that chased starter Joe Nuxhall, Robinson socked a two-run homer for a 3-2 lead against Danny McDevitt in the third. Then he broke a 3-3 tie and handed the loss to Clem Labine (3-8) with his 22nd homer, a solo shot in the fifth.

Cross Co. to Vote on Shoe Factory

WYNNE, Ark. (AP) — A proposed $450,000 bond issue to finance construction of a shoe factory went before Cross County voters today.

The building would house the Marlboro, Mass. Wynne Chamber of Commerce President Bud Raley said 250 persons would be employed to set up production and employment eventually would be about 450.

No. 200, etc.

A Milwaukee newspaper will print a full page of Spahn's pictures. A Chicago newspaper will carry an eight-column spread, showing Spahn from windup to delivery. A New York newspaper will run a picture of Spahn's left arm.

The National League, and appropriately so, may give Spahn a silver tray engraved with 266 small baseballs. The league does something for noteworthy performances, and here's one that ought to be recognized.

But what about the man who had the record? What did they do when Eppa Rixey set the record? I asked him, and he said, "Nothing. Nobody even knew I had a record. There wasn't so much emphasis in those days."

Rixey started pitching in 1912, won his 26th victory in 1933, his last year.

"Tom Swope, the baseball writer for The Cincinnati Post, gave me a copy of my record when I quit," he recalled. "He wrote that it was the best ever made in the league by a left-hander. It didn't rate national headlines."

Rixey pitched 21 years, also a league record, with time out in 1918 for World War I. Then he went into the insurance business in Cincinnati.

Most of his memories are laughs on himself.

"The third game I won in the National League was in 1912 in Cincinnati. I was pitching for Philadelphia. Bill Phelon, sports editor of The Times-Star, had a flair for poems. He wrote one about me. My name didn't fill out the last line the way he wanted it, so he added to it. He called me 'Eppa Jeppa Rixey.'"

"That isn't my name. My name is Eppa Rixey, Jr. and that's all. But the Jeppa was picked up. People assumed it was right. I got cousins in Virginia who wrote me that way. They believe it's my real name. Some of the record books carry it that way."

Like all pitchers, Rixey has a fabulous memory of his base hits. "I usually hit my weight, 195," he recalled. "But one day I got a home run, a double and two singles off Jess Haines. That night they had the big tornado in Lorain, O., and I believe those base hits started it."

Record books show that Rixey stole two bases in 21 years. "I was a double steal with Bubbles Hargrave," he said. "We stole on Gaby Harbitt. We stole on Gaby Harbitt. We had the best throwing arm of any catcher in baseball. Gaby was surprised he forgot to throw."

Rixey pitched for the Phillies and Reds. In 12 of 21 years, he was with a second-division club.

Integration 'Never,' Says Guthridge

By ED MARTIN

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A segregationist leader said today Little Rock schools will never be integrated "because the people are not going to put up with it."

Amis Guthridge, attorney for the segregationist Capital Citizens Council, said the group will resist any future school integration with everything at its command.

"We don't mean in the courts, we mean by action," added Guthridge, an official spokesman for the council.

He would not elaborate on what he meant but emphasized the action would be legal.

When pressed, Guthridge said it was possible "such things as public protest rallies" might be included.

The school board intends to open Little Rock's four public high schools in September. Gov. Orval E. Faubus kept the high schools closed during the 1958-59 school year to prevent integration. Last month a federal court struck down the state school-closing law used by Faubus.

Guthridge's statement came as the school board prepared for a meeting tonight to fix high school registration dates and discuss the use of Arkansas' pupil placement laws.

His announcement of an all-out fight against integration was the first major statement made by the council since May 25, when voters recalled three militant segregationists from the Little Rock School Board.

The election stemmed from a purge of 44 teachers ordered by the board. After the election, most of the teachers were reinstated.

Guthridge scoffed at any use of pupil placement laws by the school board, which is under federal orders to integrate.

The state's pupil placement acts provide for assigning pupils to various schools for a number of reasons, not including race. The board said recently it would follow the placement measures as long as they did not interfere with federal court decrees.

"The school board, and all their cohorts, are trying to make these laws acceptable to the public so they will cease to resist," Guthridge said.

The attorney, a charter member of the Citizens Council and an active figure in Little Rock's 1957 integration crisis, said his organization had been lying low since the recall election. Council members backed the three board members who were recalled and tried unsuccessfully to get three moderate members ousted from the board.

"We lost in the recall election," Guthridge said, "and decided to sit back and let the people of Little Rock see what they had done to themselves when they let the integrationists win. We have been on the defensive but we're going on the offensive again."

The Citizens Council pushed a vigorous campaign against integration for several months before the Central High School racial riot. Central finally was integrated by nine Negroes, who attended classes under federal troop guard in the 1957-58 school year.

Bell Rate Cut Would Hurt, Says Expert

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An Indiana securities analyst testifying for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. said yesterday that Arkansas is highly regarded as an investor's market but that a "bare bones" utilities earnings could mar this reputation.

F.J. McDiarmid of Fort Wayne, Ind., a Lincoln National Life Insurance Co. vice president, took the stand in support of Bell's fight against a threatened three million dollar rate cut at a Public Service Commission hearing here yesterday.

McDiarmid proposed that the PSC consider replacement costs, rather than original costs, in setting rates. He said that because of inflation, the market for telephone company bonds has become restricted. Bonds are not selling because of a low rate of return and a dim future for a better profit due to regulations.

The original cost formula which PSC uses to set rates is obsolete and should either be abandoned or Bell allowed a higher rate of return, he said.

Speaking generally, McDiarmid said that Arkansas' growth compares favorably with New York state. The state's "friendly attitude" tends to attract investment capital, he said. But he added an "unrealistic approach" to utilities could upset this.

McDiarmid followed Southern Methodist University economist Dr. Richard B. Johnson, as Bell sought to build its case to show that it is not earning too much money. The PSC, contending Bell made too much last year, ordered the firm to show cause why its rates should not be reduced by some three million dollars.

Bell countered with a request for a $235,000 annual boost in fringe charges, claiming it actually isn't earning enough money in Arkansas.

At the conclusion of Bell testimony, PSC experts will take over for cross-examination and Commission witnesses.

East German Demand Blows Up Parley

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
GENEVA (AP)—A new Soviet bid to win Western recognition for Communist East Germany delayed Big Four negotiations on the Berlin crisis today.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko threw a procedural roadblock into the foreign ministers' conference Monday by demanding that the East and West German observers be included in the secret conference sessions previously restricted to the Big Four ministers and their closest advisers.

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and the other Western ministers said no. As a result, a secret meeting Herter proposed for today was not scheduled and there was no indication when the ministers would get down to actual bargaining in private. Another semipublic, plenary session was called Wednesday.

Aides said one of the Western ministers probably would be designated to call on Gromyko and urge him to drop his new demand on behalf of East Germany's satellite regime.

American officials said they are determined not to give the East Germans any more status. The United States, Britain, France and West Germany do not recognize the Red German regime as a legitimate government. The West agreed at the outset of the talks to let both Germanys sit at preliminary sessions as advisers, but that was all.

British officials said they were sure Gromyko would back down from his new demand rather than tie up the conference more than 24 to 48 hours. American officials were less certain.

Despite Gromyko's procedural obstruction, some prospect for a stopgap Berlin agreement and a summit meeting was seen in the Soviet diplomat's speech Monday.

Humphrey Is First to File for President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota formally entered the race for the Democratic presidential nomination today just one year before the party's national convention in Los Angeles.

The announcement of his entry—making him the first major contender to file his hat in the ring—came from Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn.) and Gov. Orville Freeman of Minnesota.

McCarthy, at a news conference here while holding an open telephone line to St. Paul with Freeman on the other end, said in response to a question as to whether Humphrey approved of the move:

"The candidate knows we are making this formal announcement, and of course approves."

McCarthy said Humphrey is ready to compete in Democratic

Virginia's Democrats Name Slate

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Virginia Democrats chose their candidates today for the November general election of state lawmakers.

The outcome could signal whether Virginia's official approach to school integration becomes one of cold defiance or limited compliance.

Today's election involved 47 of the 140 General Assembly seats but a handful of key races were expected to provide a clue whether Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. would retain his slim control of the Legislature. Only in these was the school problem the overriding issue.

Almond publicly has taken a hands-off attitude toward the primary races. By implication he has urged the re-election of supporters of his freedom-of-choice school program.

Asked whether Humphrey would enter the Wisconsin primary April 5, McCarthy said he could not say definitely but indicated that Humphrey desired to enter it. Wisconsin is expected to pose one of the key primary tests.

What Rambler's Success Means To Every Motorist

"These test engines are worth their weight in gold...to you!"

GEORGE ROMNEY, President, American Motors Corporation

NOT because of the millions of engineering dollars they represent, but because of what these experimental engines have saved motorists—they are worth their weight in gold—and more.

For economists estimate that if all cars were as economical as Rambler, you and other motorists would save $1 1/2 to $2 billion a year on gasoline alone.

The engines above represent the most devoted, single-minded, pioneering development of economical cars undertaken by an American manufacturer.

While other makes were fighting a tooth-and-nail size and horsepower race, Rambler engineers were fighting to save money for the American motorist.

First Rambler engineers fought weight—the everlasting enemy of economy. That problem was solved with lighter, stronger, aircraft-type Single Unit Construction*. Rambler Single Unit Construction saves hundreds of pounds of gas-wasting, excess weight.

Next, Rambler engineers set out to design engines to give the best performance on the least fuel.

RAMBLER'S YEARS OF TESTING

We built and tested engines of many different metals, cast-iron, aluminum, various alloys. We are delivering an American Motors V-4 aluminum, air-cooled engine to the armed forces, in a special purpose vehicle.

We built 2 and 4-cycle engines ... 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, 8-cylinder, V-engines, in-line engines, pancake engines with opposing cylinders, L-head, F-head, overhead valve engines, air-cooled and liquid-cooled engines.

ENGINE—FRONT OR REAR

We built and tested front-engine, front-drive cars ... rear-engine, rear-drive cars. We assembled the largest collection of foreign cars in the industry. We tested them under every type of driving condition.

We were open-minded. Our prototype tests made it clear that the rear engine finds its best use in very small, very light cars; that engine weight in the rear can improve traction, but creates serious problems of steering balance. Use of a rear engine is at times dictated by styling insistence on excessively low cars deficient in entrance room and seating comfort.

Our extensive research showed clearly that the engine should be up front in a Rambler-size car. There it gives the greatest steering stability and safer control under a variety of conditions. And it provides greater passenger safety than is possible in a car that has the gas tank up front and the heavy engine weight in the rear, with the passengers sandwiched in between.

THE HOT SUBJECT OF ENGINE COOLING

Engineering research and our actual experience proved that air-cooled engines tended to be noisier and that temperature control, most important to operating efficiency, was much more difficult to maintain.

These many years of research and testing of all types of engines, followed by 10 years and 25 billion owner-driven miles in Ramblers, have convinced us that the ideal power plant is the front-mounted, liquid-cooled engine. Rambler owners know this to be true. For surveys show they get better economy and have fewer complaints than owners of any competitive car.

Rambler sales are at an all-time high. Motorists want a compact* car that gives them real economy and riding ease, plus big car room, comfort and performance.

AUTO INDUSTRY TURNED UPSIDE DOWN

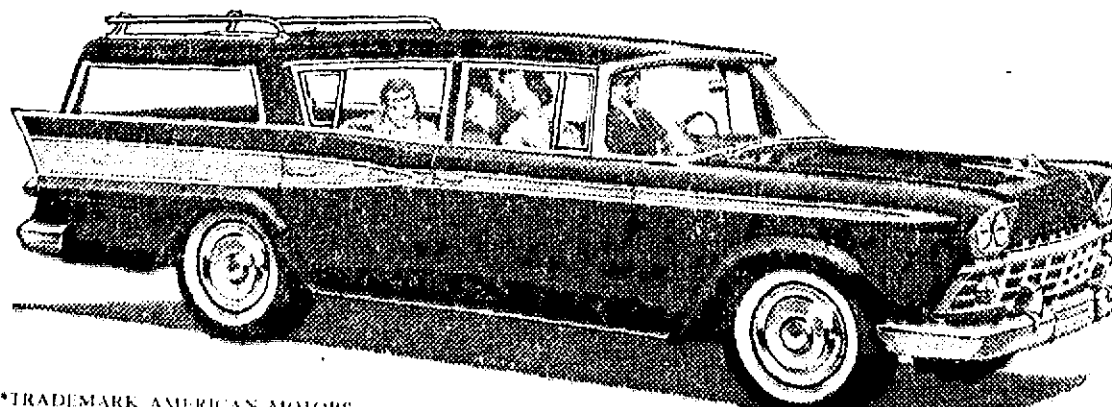

The Rambler concept has sparked the biggest reaction in recent automobile history. In state after state from Maine to California, Rambler is now outselling all but two American makes. And Rambler cars outsells the seven most popular foreign cars combined.

Thus, it was to be expected that other manufacturers would be forced to build the type of car so in demand.

But there is no substitute for experience. More than ten years of building compact cars, added to 25 additional years of research and testing, are the reason for Rambler's basic excellence—the right combination of quality, performance, room, comfort and economy that motorists want.

Ask any Rambler owner. He'll tell you why more than a thousand people a day are switching to the Rambler. Or, be your own judge and drive a Rambler at your Rambler dealer.

French-Based U.S. Planes Due in Germany

BON VOYAGE:
 The first planes to be transferred from American bases in Europe to German airfields will start arriving in West Germany next at the end of this month, according to a well-placed source. It is the first the planes will be sent to around bases in southern Germany, although their exact disposition is a closely guarded secret. The warplanes are being transferred as part of a peace dispute with NATO over atomic bunkers on French soil. U.S. and British spokesmen have emphasized that U.S. feelings toward France remain as friendly as always. British newspapers are saying that the final step means that France has joined the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Mayflower Story With a New Twist

By PHYLLIS BATTELE

NEW YORK — Next to self-made millionaires and beautiful prepared women, the proudest people in America are those whose ancestors arrived on the Mayflower. The fact is that if you cannot be rich and rich, the next best thing is to be of old family and proud. Harvest and money has feelings have for generations, which on easy street as a result of tracing back and unearthing Mayflower heritages that American families can boast about.

But there is one story — a juicy, romantic tale — that remains a mystery until last week. It concerns four Mayflower children, three brothers and a sister, whose pre-America heritage has baffled historians for three centuries.

The curious truth was finally pieces together in England, proving there'll always be a Sherlock Holmes.

MOUNT OLYMPUS:

If there is a summit meeting following the Foreign Ministers' Conference in Geneva, it is almost certain to take place in Europe. The British, the Americans and the Russians have no objections to a place like San Francisco -- in fact, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev might prefer it. But the Germans and the French do not like the idea that makes Geneva or Vienna the most likely sites.

TRADE WAR:

In the midst of the unrelenting war in Berlin, British officialdom is very worried about a problem that is providing few headlines—the economic war in Europe. High-level British thinking is that a potential economic war between the six common market nations and the five "outside-seven" led by Britain and Europe and NATO thus far has been averted. The common market nations include the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg, West Germany, France and Italy. Italian fashion shows open July 16, and there are predictions skirts may go down to below the knee, bringing them to American length. At least one fashion house, Gardner's favorite Pantanone Sisters in Rome—plans a "national situation" with the emphasis on tiny necks.

East German Parley Bid Is Rejected

By HERB ALTSCHULL
GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union swiftly plunged the renewed Geneva conference into crisis Monday by demanding that East German representatives sit in on secret sessions. The West rejected the Soviet bid.

It was a day of speechmaking, the longest day of the conference, and all was going smoothly with both East and West saying there was now a basis of agreement involving a lengthy freeze of the Berlin crisis. But Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko put a period to that.

U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, in the chair as the conference resumed after a three-week recess, had suggested the Big Four foreign ministers hold a secret session Tuesday. No, said Gromyko.

"The Soviet delegation could not show a positive attitude to such a suggestion if it means that some of the participants of the conference are to be excluded from discussion," he said.

Herter replied that up to now the secret sessions had been confined to participants in the conference and that the East and West Germans were here as advisers, not participants.

As a result, no meeting at all was scheduled for Tuesday. The next session was called for Wednesday.

The Soviet attitude posed a threat to the success of the conference. During the first six weeks of the talks, the only serious negotiations took place at secret sessions attended by Herter, Gromyko, Selwyn Lloyd of Britain and Maurice Couve de Murville of France.

The big plenary sessions, in which delegations sat as observers, produced nothing but speechmaking.

The Western powers took the attitude Gromyko's move was aimed at trying to win Western recognition of the legality of the East German government. The West has stuck firmly to the premise that the East German authorities are Soviet puppets and have no legal standing.

Andrew H. Berding, assistant U.S. secretary of state, told newsmen: "It is quite obvious that what Mr. Gromyko has in mind is the ever-greater de facto recognition of the East German government."

The dispute took the edge off an extremely harmonious session in which Gromyko had assured the Western powers the Soviets would not put a new squeeze on West Berlin if the two sides could agree to put the status of that city on ice while diplomats sought a long-range solution. During the freeze period, he said, "the Soviet Union would not take unilateral action."

Herter in his lengthy opening speech demanded just such an assurance.

But Berding told newsmen the Western powers had not yet decided whether Gromyko's statement was satisfactory.

The conference developed after a Soviet announcement last Nov. 27 that the Soviets were ending the postwar occupation of Berlin and would turn over their own rights to the East Germans.

This would involve giving the East Germans control over Western convoys traveling the 110 miles across East German territory to supply Western troops in West Berlin.

Just before the conference broke off June 20, Gromyko proposed an interim settlement that would provide for reduction of troops in West Berlin, the end of propaganda activities and the setting up of an all-German commission to work out a general German solution.

The interim period would last 18 months.

The Western Allies said the time figure amounted to an ultimatum and rejected the proposal as a basis for negotiation.

after their return from the latest probe.

But Tass said "information is reported to have been obtained on the entire range of the research program" for the latest experiment.

This included "measurements of the infrared radiation and the earth's atmosphere, the photographing of clouds over a vast territory, a simultaneous analysis of the ion and neutral composition of the atmosphere and a measurement of the electrostatic fields."

The dog and rabbit rocket was reported to have carried instruments which gathered data on light gases in the outer atmosphere, ultraviolet rays, meteoric showers and direction and speed of air currents at various heights.

The Soviet Union was the first to announce shooting a dog into space—Laska, who rode around the earth for seven days in a small capsule in the nose cone of an earth satellite, Sputnik II. The satellite was launched Nov. 3, 1957, and spluttered to earth six months later.

The United States was the first to recover animals alive from a long journey into space. Two monkeys, Able and Baker, traveled 1,500 miles and as high as 300 miles and were fished safely from the Atlantic last May.

"We have proved that radiation barriers are not impossible to overcome," an announcement said last week.

One reason for sending the same animals on repeated flights is to check their reactions to weightlessness and other space conditions. Nothing was said about the medical condition of the two dogs.

The plane was on a flight from Havana to Comodoro in Cuba when the quartet took charge.

Horse-Trailer Carries Cash Instead

VAN DUREN, Ark. (AP)—Burglars apparently used a horse trailer to cart off a heavy safe containing nearly $12,000—about half of it in cash—from a supermarket here, police reported Monday.

Officers said the thieves entered the Market Basket grocery through the front door, which opens onto Highway 64-71. Neighbors reported seeing a car pulling a two-wheeled horse trailer parked in front of the store about 4 a. m. Monday, leading investigators to believe the burglars hauled the safe off to open elsewhere.

No clues have turned up.

Market Basket co-owner Jim Sargent said the safe contained Saturday night and Sunday receipts—about half in cash and half in checks.

A burglary at a laundromat three blocks from the market apparently was not related, police said. Fort Smith detectives arrested two men who had a television set taken from the laundromat in their car.

Steel Strike Threat Dumps Stock Market

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market Monday tumbled to its sharpest loss in more than a month as concern grew about the approaching steel strike deadline.

An estimated three billion dollars was shaken from the quiet value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the decline in The Associated Press average.

Streets and rails were pace-makers in the selloff. The retreat was from a level very close to record highs reached last week.

While train it was quiet active, over-all volume dipped to 3,360,000 shares from 3,600,000 Friday, thus taking away some emphasis from the decline.

The Dow Jones industrial average dropped 6.21 to 637.35.

The AP 60-stock average fell $2.49 to $231.50, its worst loss since June 3 when it fell $2.20. The industrial component was down $4.41 to $1,100.00 and the utility index down $1.00 to $100.00.

Pivotal issues were down from fractions to more than 2 points, ties 50 cents.

Of 1,235 issues traded, 692 declined and 343 advanced. There were 51 new highs for the year and 16 new lows.

The Big Three motors, coppers, oils, chemicals, electronics, tobacco and electrical equipments joined in the retreat. The smaller automakers, aluminum and selected issues bucked the downward trend.

Volume on the American Stock Exchange was 1,300,000 shares compared with 1,300,000 on Friday.

U.S. government bonds advanced in fairly active trading. Corporate securities closed higher with investment quality issues and utilities leading the way. Rails, industrials and foreign bonds were mixed. Trading amounted to 5,300,000 par value on the Big Board from $3,450,000 Friday.

Discrimination Is Denied by Union Negroes

DETROIT (AP)—Reports of racial discrimination in Detroit Transfers Local 299 were denied Monday by 153 Negro members.

In a telegram to Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), chairman of the Senate committee probing racial matters, they said they had never been discriminated against and had never known Transfers to discriminate against Negroes.

The telegram added that charges of such discrimination made before the committee last week were "completely false."

A Negro truck driver last Friday testified that in 1954 there were only five or six Negroes among 1,000 members in Local 299.

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) presiding at the hearing, said he could send staff members to Detroit to investigate the charges.

Larry Campbell, business representative of the local, said the union has not heard from the Senate investigators. Campbell said as a Negro himself, "I strongly resent the false charges of discrimination."

He said the local has approximately 1,000 Negro members.

Steel Parley Resumes With Little Hope

By NORMAN WALKER

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel negotiations resumed Monday at White House bidding but with barely any hope left for avoiding an industry strike at midnight Tuesday.

The industry and union negotiators went back to bargaining talks at the direct urging of President Eisenhower. There had been a complete break-off Sunday.

Eisenhower said in Washington after a conference with Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Secretary of Labor James T. Mitchell that there still was time left to reach a peace pact to save the nation from an economy-crippling strike.

Four-man negotiating teams representing both sides then held an hour-long session. David J. McDonald, president of the Steel workers union, also met briefly with the union's executive board and wage policy committee.

Later McDonald and R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, went into a two-man huddle of their own.

After their session, however, the industry bargaining chief said the situation had not changed. He said the industry still balked at negotiating any wage increases, on the grounds they would be inflationary.

"Actually," Cooper told newsmen, "the fundamental issue as we see it is the union's determination to extract wage and benefit increases of substance that would inevitably have substantial inflationary effects."

Industry shutdown operations to prepare for a walkout already were in a well advanced stage, with furnaces and coke ovens being banked and mills starting to slow down.

While these preparations went on, reports came that the nation's steel-using companies don't have as much metal on hand now as at the start of the 1956 steel strike, even though they have been trying to stockpile in anticipation of a walkout. The booming economy of the first six months of 1959 consumed more steel than expected, a survey by "Steel" magazine indicated.

The survey said steel stocks now total more than 21 million tons, down four million from the supply at the beginning of the 1956 strike.

However, this year the stocks were said to be better balanced than three years ago, and many companies also were carrying inventories in the form of finished products, such as automobiles.

McDonald promised "an all-American try" at last ditch bargaining. But Cooper was gloomy over peace prospects.

Saying only another contract extension by the union could avoid an otherwise "inevitable strike,"

To Restrict Nuclear Dumping

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A committee of top scientists has offered a set of recommendations it says would allow certain radioactive "garbage" from an expected international fleet of 300 nuclear-powered ships to be disposed of without undue hazard to human health.

The recommendations were made Monday by a committee of the National Academy of Sciences which predicted that such a number of nuclear-propelled surface and underwater craft might be in service among the fleets of the world by 1975.

Eleven specific procedures were recommended for the disposal of radioactive wastes which exist in several forms. The waste would not include radioactive fuel elements which the committee indicated would be buried on land.

In general, the suggested safety rules called for disposal at considerable distances at sea—in some cases more than 100 miles from the shoreline.

On Capitol Hill, Atomic Energy Commission officials termed it unlikely that other than very minor use will be made of the ocean

Cooper firmly declared that: "We're not the aggressors in the situation, we're not causing a strike."

McDonald ruled out any further contract extension beyond the two-week truce expiring Tuesday night.

for the dumping of radioactive wastes.

At present, they said, the high-level and consequently more dangerous wastes are stored in underground steel tanks on land and there is no proposal ever to dump them in the ocean.

Red Dog Has Made Fourth Space Flight

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—Daring, the white space dog, has made another round trip—her fourth—to the outer atmosphere in a rocket, the Soviet Union announced Monday.

Daring and another dog were shot up in a 4,350-pound rocket on July 10 and safely parachuted to earth, the official news agency Tass said.

She was one of three passengers in the dog and bunny rocket which the Soviets announced was sent into space on July 2. The other passengers were another dog, Snowflake, and a rabbit named Marfushka (Little Martha), the Soviets said.

All the animal space travelers, along with packages of instruments for testing conditions for a man-carrying rocket, were safely recovered, Tass reported.

The Soviets have not disclosed the distance or height reached nor the location of the launching.

They have described the July 2 rocket as the most powerful single-stage missile yet put into the cosmos, however, and said it reached a "great altitude."

The second rocket was said to be of the same type, weighing nearly 2½ tons with its payload of instruments and animals. The July 2 rocket with payload was said to have weighed over two tons.

"We have proved that radiation barriers are not impossible to overcome," an announcement said last week.

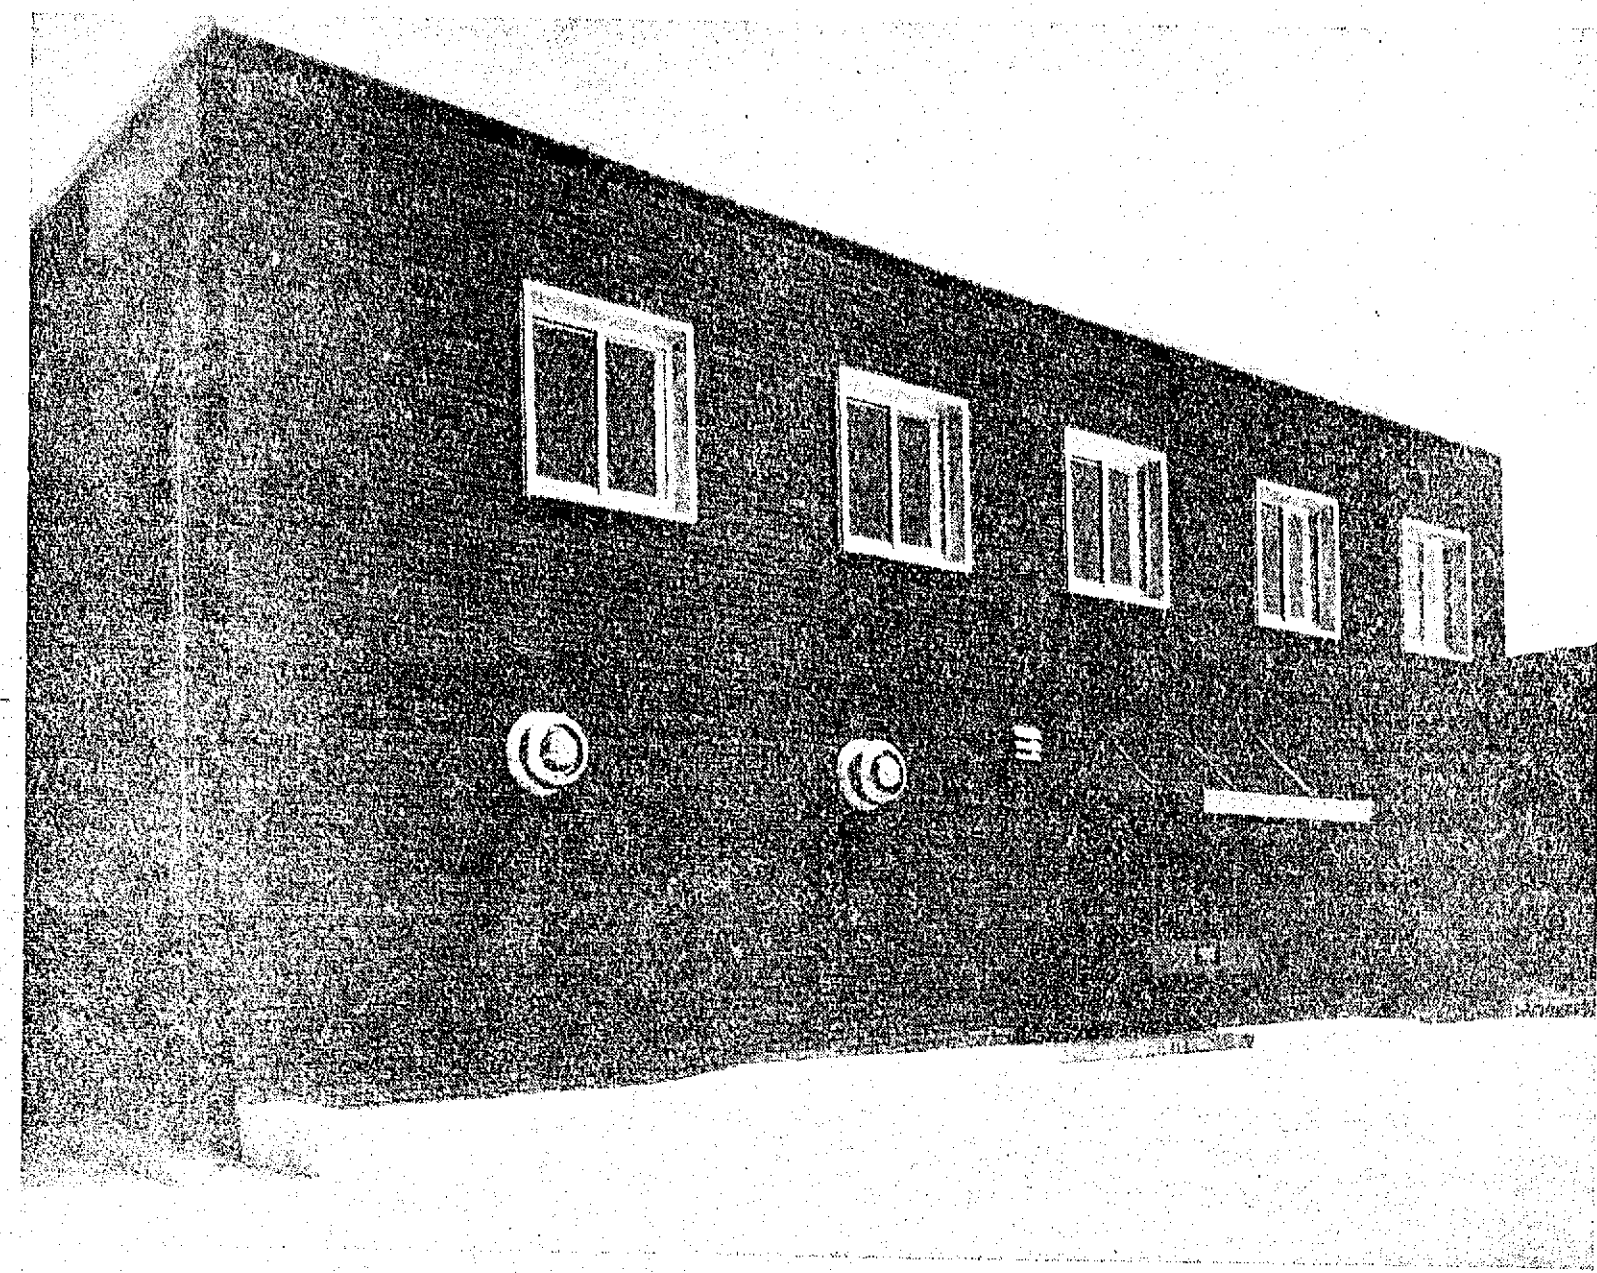

One reason for sending the same animals on repeated flights is to check their reactions to weightlessness and other space conditions. Nothing was said about the medical condition of the two dogs.

Honduras Puts Down Second Uprising

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department reports that for the second time in two months the Honduran government has crushed an armed revolt led by the same man.

The department quoted the U.S. Embassy in Tegucigalpa as saying Sunday's revolt was short-lived but that there was heavy fighting in the area around police headquarters in Tegucigalpa.

The embassy said government troops and police beat back the attack, hunched with a few pieces of field artillery as well as rifles and pistols.

The reports named the leader of the revolt as Armando Velasquez, a former army chief of staff and said by agreement he was recruited to leave the Central American country again.

"The Associated Press has received no direct word from Tegucigalpa since early Sunday night," the report added, "but some firing in transmission, said firing was continuing throughout the city but centered around the police headquarters, which seems to be the center of the revolt."

The State Department received no information on the number of troops involved in the fighting, nor of the casualties.

But travelers arriving in Nicaragua from Honduras Sunday night said more than 100 persons were killed in Tegucigalpa. They said police, cadets of the Military Academy and troops at the San Francisco barracks took part in the revolt.

Velasquez led an attack by 500 rebels last May 11 on Gracias, a state capital in western Honduras. Those rebels were driven into the mountains and Velasquez reportedly took refuge in Costa Rica.

Butler Double Talks About Segregation

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Paul Butler, Democratic national chairman, has had a severe case of double-think. Five years ago, he says, he did not consider segregation a political issue. Now, he says, he does.

This may seem incredible to those Democrats in Congress already mad at him for criticizing them. The question of civil rights, which includes segregation, has been a political issue many years.

It gives them a chance to ask: "Mr. Butler, you've been in politics 32 years but where have you been?"

Life has not been exactly jolly for the peppery, 54-year-old Indiana lawyer since he became his party's chief of staff in 1954. He has pot-shotted at the Republicans ever since. Last week he fired on his own troops.

He said the Democrats in Congress are not doing enough and are playing too much ball with President Eisenhower. They responded in various ways, including the suggestion he shut up or get out.

Over the weekend he cut loose with more of the same criticism of Democrats and also accused Eisenhower of saying too little on segregation.

Eisenhower has never said whether he thinks the Supreme Court's 1954 ban on public school segregation is good or bad. Last week he said he thinks segregation is immoral when it interferes with a citizen's political or economic opportunity.

This is another way of saying when it interferes with a Negro's right to vote or earn a living. But Eisenhower still left unsaid whether he thinks the principle of segregation itself is immoral.

At a news conference Butler said Eisenhower didn't go far enough. He said: "Segregation is immoral period."

He was then asked about a story in the Atlanta Constitution, which reported that Georgia's Democratic chairman, John S. Brantley, has a plaque from Butler, written on the back of an envelope, that he would not try to make segregation a national issue.

Butler tried to brush aside the story as "old political business."

He said he signed the plaque in 1954 when he was elected Democratic chairman. That segregation then was a legal matter "and I did not see any reason to make it a political issue."

He said that was the way in 1954 about the Supreme Court's ban on public school segregation. "I was not a member of the Democratic Party in 1954. I was a member of the Republican Party. But he signed the plaque in 1954. But he signed the plaque in 1954. But he signed the plaque in 1954."

drownings yesterday boosted the number of violent deaths in Arkansas during the week to 22. At midnight yesterday, no drowning victims were reported. Two died while swimming after boating mishaps. Hughes, 19, drowned in pond near his home north of Hope after his boat capsized. He was found clinging to the side of the boat and then tried to swim. He went under about halfway there. A Blytheville resident, Marylin Proctor, 18, drowned in the Mississippi River when he was thrown from a boat after it lurched in the wake of another craft. The accident happened near a landing about seven miles east of Blytheville. Proctor's body was not recovered.

Dragging operations were carried on late last night in an effort to find the body of Jim Thompson, 9, who drowned while swimming in the Current River near Corning. The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Thompson of Datto, had been on a picnic with his family. Wayne Lacy, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lacy of Heber Springs, drowned in the Little Red River. He was swimming with two companions at the time, Sheriff Martin Turney said.

Other drownings during the week took three lives and traffic accidents killed eight persons. Two persons were killed when struck by trains, two killed by lightning and one accidentally electrocuted.

Two children suffocated in a refrigerator near Forrest City. Rudy Cox, 57, of Marmaduke, was killed yesterday when struck by a truck on state Highway One, south of Rector. State Police said he was lying in the road when he was hit. They identified the truck driver as Wody Wicker, 21, of Paragould.

Labor Group Backs Public Education

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Free public education got strong backing in a resolution passed by more than 50 persons at a labor-sponsored meeting here yesterday.

The resolution opposed any neglect of public schools for private, tuition-supported institutions in the integration controversy.

Several state labor leaders called the meeting to form a committee to fight for preservation of free public schools. Such a committee was formed, but a dissident group of about 20 persons objected that not all those present were members of organized labor and the resolution should not be recorded as an action by "labor."

The committee finally was named "Committee with Members of Organized Labor to Maintain Our Free Public Schools."

The resolution said in part: "The children of all people must be given the same educational opportunities. Weakening or destroying tax-supported public schools in favor of private, tuition-supported schools would limit educational opportunities for the children of all people."

Odel Smith, president of Teachers Local 878, presided as acting chairman.

Assignment Laws Studied by L. R. Board

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Little Rock School Board will consider among other business—plans for first-hand study of pupil assignment laws in other states at a special meeting tomorrow night, when President Everett Tucker Jr. said today.

Tucker said the Board will decide what representatives to send to Charlotte, N.C., and Norfolk, Va., to study their methods of pupil assignment.

The visit would be to gain information which presumably would be used in assignment of pupils to Little Rock high schools, which the Board intends to re-open this fall under a court order to desegregate.

The high schools were closed last fall by Gov. Orval E. Faubus to precede continued integration at Central High, but the school-closing law has been held invalid.

Other topics before tomorrow night's meeting will include reassignment and employment of personnel—including a new principal at Horace Mann (Negro) High School—and bids on a school fire alarm system and a long-range analysis of the school system by Peabody College.

Dr. L. M. Christophe resigned recently as principal of Horace Mann.

Railroads to Pool Earnings for Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The Wall Street Journal said today that the nation's railroads are considering a plan to blunt the threat of labor disputes with strike insurance.

The program consists, in effect, of pooling industry funds increase of a strike against any participating carrier, according to the newspaper.

The agreement, an eight-page document, has been mailed to 500 railroads, members of the Association of American Railroads.

Three-year labor contracts covering 840,000 railroad workers expire this fall. Earlier this year the railroad industry served notice on 23 unions it planned drastic revisions of work rules and pay scales in the new contracts.

Long Plans to 'Clean Out Scalawags'

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Earl K. Long, still vowing he'll beat his Louisiana political rivals, said today he's running for re-election "to clean out the scalawags."

The ailing Louisiana executive, shaved, manicured and wearing a tie and crisp white shirt, greeted newsmen in his suite in a hotel here.

Long, on the first stage of a vacation trip to the West, said, among other things that:

He plans to mop up any remaining gambling in his state.

Has been offered a million dollars—"million bucks," he phrased it—since he became governor.

Despite his plan to stop gambling, he plans to "get some of that sucker money" by placing political bets.

His threat to clean out the "scalawags" didn't make clear to whom he referred.

Forestry Group Meets at the Spa

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The Forestry Conservation Communications Assn. opens its 10th annual convention here tomorrow.

The 175 delegates from throughout the nation will be welcomed by Gov. Orval E. Faubus at a meeting Wednesday morning.

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett will be master of ceremonies at the annual dinner Thursday night.

2nd Death by Polio Reported for Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A second polio death was reported today and a National Foundation official warned that an Arkansas polio epidemic is a distinct possibility.

Charles Reed, state foundation representative, said that unless there is a large increase in the number of vaccinations against the disease "the current rise in incidence of polio will reach epidemic proportions."

Robert Eugene Grimes, 27, died of bulbar polio today in a Little Rock hospital.

A young girl who apparently contracted the disease in North Carolina before moving to Arkansas was the first to die of polio in the state this year. There were no deaths in the state last year from the disease.

Grimes' survivors include his widow, two sons, father and grandparents.

The Pulaski County Chapter of the National Foundation reported Saturday that its broke.

Low Bidder Named for L. R. Center

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A Little Rock firm, Collier, Inc., is the apparent low bidder for construction of a new shopping center here.

Company President C. C. Collier Jr. said today that his firm's bid on the Broadway Plaza projects was "in excess of one million dollars." Five other firms, four of them from the Little Rock area, submitted bids at a bid-opening Friday in the Houston, Tex., architect's office.

Principal investor in the shopping center is J. Weingarten, of Houston. The center is planned at West Roosevelt Road and Broadway.

This Is Life in Arkansas

By BOB HARRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

A cornish pipe proved an added attraction for some persons attending the White River Water Carnival at Batesville last weekend. The pipe was placed in the mouth of an unemployed woman of about 15. The woman, who wore a hat and a ponytail, looked like a typical Batesville housewife. She had the long, thin, dark hair of her mother and a cigarette in her mouth.

In Conway, a woman found that a parking dog may not bite, but it still can have some disagreeable effects. Miss Joyce C. Hays, 14, of Little Rock, was in Conway when she was involved in a parking dog fight. She was sitting in her car when a dog came up to her and started barking. She got out of the car and tried to get the dog away from her.

Canada Bank Loss Is Put at $73,264

OTTAWA (AP)—A check of the vault at a Toronto-Dominion Bank branch here, delayed by a jammed time lock, has shown a shortage of $73,264, bank officials said today.

Meanwhile, Deputy Police Chief J. A. Cavan said city detectives will go to San Diego, Calif., to pick up bank teller Richard Boudreau and his friend, Gerald Leclerc, both 19. The two youths were arrested at the Mexican border carrying $71,529 in a suitcase. Exact amount of money missing could not be determined here until noon. The lock on the vault at the bank could not be opened and it was necessary to have the vault drilled. Bank officials would not say if they thought the time lock had been tampered with.

Bank Manager John B. Rooney returned to Ottawa Sunday night from a vacation trip to Gananoque, Ont., and Watertown, N.Y. He said he must have been in Watertown just about the time Boudreau and Leclerc crossed into the United States near that city.

Might Kill Propaganda by Secrecy

GENEVA (AP)—The West called today for immediate resort to secret diplomacy in the second round of the Big Four conference here in an effort to shelve the Berlin crisis and clear the way for a summit conference. U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Heister told RUSSIA THE United States hopes for sufficient East-West agreement at Geneva to warrant a heads of government meeting.

He said the best way to seek this agreement would be in small private meetings of the foreign ministers beginning Tuesday. The foreign ministers met just 13 minutes short of four hours, the longest meeting since they began their conference May 11.

Alford Probe Terminal Date Not Yet Set

WASHINGTON (AP)—No date has been set for the windup of a House Elections subcommittee investigation into the election last year of Rep. Dale Alford (D-Ark.). Chairman Robert T. Ashmore (D-SC) said today there is no way of determining just how much more time his committee and its staff will require.

He said the staff is now studying between 3,000 and 4,000 questioned ballots which it brought back last week from Little Rock. After staff work is completed, the committee will decide which of the ballots are valid and when they were cast.

When the subcommittee's work is completed it will report to the full House Administration Committee, which ordered the investigation in which Alford was named. Alford was a member of the House of Representatives from 1953 to 1956. He was defeated in the 1956 election. The investigation into his election was ordered by the House of Representatives in 1957. The investigation is still ongoing and no date has been set for its completion.

Comedy Team Spoofs Charlie Chan Drama

By FRED DANZIG
United Press International

NEW YORK (UP)—Short Shots: Wayne and Shuster, almost the only delegates to week-end TV from the world of comedy, managed to litter the Ed Sullivan Show's stage with a dozen corpses during a Charlie Chan spoof that used Hula Hoops for murder weapons. While some of the gags they incorporated into the sketch were groaners, their flair for zaniness pulled them through. They held on well on these long summer nights.

Sneaking of summer, pantomime-banjoist Gene Shulman, who was a guest of the NBC-TV Chevy Chase Show Sunday night seems to be as much a part of the warm weather TV scene as the one and only Mike Stokey of Pantomime Quiz.

They say no actor can resist the lure put forth by Shakespeare, and I suppose that was what lured Claude Rains into appearing as an alcoholic actor who turned blackmailer in Sunday night's Alfred Hitchcock Presents on CBS-TV. He even died reciting lines from Hamlet.

Perry Presents, the somewhat ruffled summer replacement for the unruffled Como show, offered Gloria DeHaven in place of Teresa Brewer on Saturday night. But that's not the answer to this show's troubles. A quick injection of Point Four financial aid might do it better. The talent on the show, Tony Bennett, Miss DeHaven and the Four Lads, all sing good, like good singers should. And the special material manages to be surprisingly crisp. But I think this NBC-TV hour needs more outland sets to help spread the feeling of joy-through-music and dispel the vaudeville air.

Incidentally, just before the show began, a pre-recorded plug by Bennett asked NBC-TV viewers to stay tuned for Teresa Brewer (who was dropped from the show five days earlier). I've heard of low budgets.

A new series, consisting of the taped tendril of past Jack Paar shows began unwinding on Friday night. Called the Best of Paar, these NBC-TV re-Paar-titions seemed to have more pace than second-best Paar shows. The quick switches from chat to commercials and back to lively delings is an asset. But only time will tell if this plus makes up for the loss of spontaneity previously found in those "live" Friday night delings.

Billing note: Dick Clark on his Saturday night ABC-TV half-hour introduced "Conquistador" Francis a "America's number one female vocalist." To arms, fans of Dottie Stevens.

The Channel Swim: Arlene Francis will emcee the Jack Paar Show on Monday, July 20, while Paar takes the night off. Gwen Verdon, dancing star of the Broadway musical, "Redhead," has agreed to star in a Playhouse 80 for producer Fred Coe next season. The property, still unselected, will be taped in New York. A sketch by Ben Hecht about his late friend, Charles MacArthur, will be presented on the Goodyear Theater next season with Tony Randall playing the lead.

Omnibus will announce its 1959-60 plans with NBC-TV in the near future. The revived CBS-TV science series, Conquest, will return on Nov. 1 with a study on mother love called "The Measure of Love." Ben Alexander will emcee NBC-TV's Queen for a Day during the week of Aug. 17 and Jack Smith takes over the show the following week while Jack Bailey vacations.

James Arnes becomes co-producer with CBS-TV of Gunsmoke under his new long-term contract. He'll also continue as Marshal Matt Dillon. "Miracle on 34th Street" will be presented as an NBC-TV special on Friday, Nov. 27. David Susskind will produce the show.

Treason Count on Powell Is Thrown Out

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—U.S. Commissioner Joseph Kerosch today dismissed a treason charge against John W. Powell, his wife, Selva, both of San Francisco; and Johann Schuman of New York City. U.S. Atty. Lynn Gillard said an investigation into the case is continuing and "probably will take another 60 to 90 days to complete."

The three were charged with treason in connection with publication of the China Monthly Review in Shanghai during the Korean War. They were accused of aiding warm-warfare lies about the United States and with publishing other stories which the government said were used by the Red Chinese in brainwashing American prisoners of war.

Test School Ends With a Bitter Blast

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas is caught in a "vicious cycle" of sub-standard education, according to a report by two educators on the Arkansas Experiment in Teacher Education, an ambitious teacher improvement program.

Willard B. Spalding, head of the Portland (Ore.) State College education department, and David B. Rathwohl of Michigan State University, also said Arkansas may not be able to afford "excellent" higher education programs.

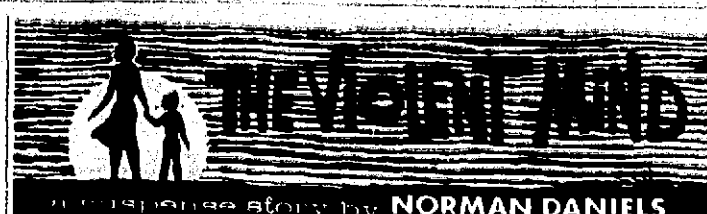

The teacher education experiment ended June 30. The controversial teacher-training program proposed giving future teachers four years of liberal arts education and a fifth year of instruction in teaching, rather than the existing method of combining four years of general education and teacher training.

The educators said that the state loses most of its talented youngsters. Teachers in the experiment "were drawn from, learned to teach in and were initially employed in a state which from year to year is either lowest or next lowest in financial support of public schools," their report said.

"The cycle is a vicious one. It is not easy to break," the report said. "The best products of the state's educational system leave Arkansas," the report said.

Because of Arkansas' relatively low economic status, the educators said, prospects are not promising for obtaining enough funds to develop and maintain "excellent" programs of higher education.

The report offered no suggestions for breaking the "vicious cycle."

THE STORY: Apparently someone is trying to conceal the identity of the lost child that Diane Paige found. The child later was stolen from Diane's station wagon. Diane recently recovered from a temporary mental disturbance, and efforts to convince people that she actually saw the child, are not successful. Only Casey, her husband, believes her.

XIV
Casey asked: "Am I permitted to ask what's in your sleuthing mind?"

"You are not," Diane replied. "Because if it turns out to be silly, I'd rather you never worried about it. Just an idea, Casey. Hurry now — and Casey —"

"I-huh?" he said, already fashioning the words he was going to use in convincing the old man.

"I loved you when I met you, and when you proposed and when you married me. I loved you even more when you stood by me during that horrible business when we lost the baby. But now — I love you to the absolute utmost because you believe in me, when believing must be difficult for you — and when I have need of your faith more than ever."

She turned away from him suddenly and drew a sharp breath. "Go hit the old man on the head if you have to, but buy this cottage."

Casey Paige was back in an hour and Diane knew from the way he looked at the cottage, as he walked from the station wagon, that the deal had gone through. She was doubly certain from the way he kissed her and held her.

"I got it at a fair price," he said. "No haggling."

"I'll bet you didn't tell him I used to be a television actress."

"Well, frankly, the subject never came up and I didn't think it was proper, at the time, to distract him. By the way, he seems to think you're not imagining the child."

"I shouldn't wonder, Casey," he looked at her suspiciously. "What's this? Suspicious of the old man?"

"I don't know, Casey, we're going to solve the mystery of that child. I'm going to see her again, and when I do, she won't be frightened and she won't vanish. But for right now, I'm ready for the trip to Biddeford."

"Biddeford? Oh — the rose trestle. Well, okay. But, Diane, I'll have to fly to Boston tomorrow."

"All right."

"About our deal with Blanchard. He wants it closed immediately and I'm all for it, before somebody throws a monkey wrench in from abroad," the newspaper said.

Little Rock Polio Chapter Is 'Broke'

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Pulaski County Chapter of the National Foundation, whose chief enemy is polio, is broke. The chapter went into the red as the incidence of polio in the county reached what a "bookman" said was an "alarming" stage.

The chapter has appealed to the national organization for financial help, but there appeared little chance that any would be possible from this source.

The foundation extended the county chapter $5,000 on June 10 and said this was all it could expect.

Eighteen polio cases have been reported in Pulaski County since Jan. 1, compared to no cases for the same period of 1958. Only one of the victims had three Salk vaccine shots, and these were administered in 1957. At least 14 of the 18 have been given financial assistance or will require it, J. Wythe Walker, president of the Pulaski chapter, said.

Walker said the chapter would require at least $5,500 just to meet June patient aid bills.

He said the chapter wrote a check for $2,600 last Friday to pay some of its June bills.

"That was it," he said, "We are now flat broke."

Don Mix, now living in Bristol, Conn., made the first contact by radio from the Arctic to the U.S. when he was aboard the Arctic-exploring schooner "Bowdoin" in 1923-24.

Centennial Co-ordinator Is Named

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus has appointed George E. Benjamin Sr. of Little Rock as co-ordinator of Civil War Centennial activities in Arkansas.

Benjamin is founder and chairman of the Pea Ridge Restoration Committee, which was organized in 1956 to work for the establishment of the Pea Ridge National Military Park.

Dedication of the park is planned for March 6, 1962, the 100th anniversary of the Battle of Pea Ridge.

Benjamin said he planned to invite Gen. Douglas MacArthur to be the speaker.

He said also that he was trying to arrange for representatives of Indian tribes who fought with the Confederates to be present.

The Pea Ridge Park is to be the site of the big Arkansas centennial celebration.

Benjamin said he believed the federal government would spend $1,500,000 to two million dollars to develop the park.

News Briefs

OKAYAMA, Japan (AP)—Two hundred grade school pupils were inoculated here last week as part of an anti-polio campaign. By the weekend they were ill.

Embarrassed officials said the school doctor had mistakenly used a medicated soap solution instead of vaccine. They said the students would recover quickly.

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet film officials have announced that 42 countries will be represented in an international film festival to be held here Aug. 3-17.

TOKYO (AP)—The Japan Times says it's high time Japan started numbering its houses and naming its streets.

"That all the streets in Japan except a relative few have no names is one of the strangest phenomena which amaze a visitor from abroad," the newspaper said.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Adrian Pelt, a former U.N. assistant secretary general, has been named special representative of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld in Guinea.

Pelt, a Dutchman, will make recommendations on U.N. long-term technical aid projects sought by the new African nation.

TOKYO (AP)—Teachers in the schools of Tokyo are trying to break up the bustling sale of a new item among their students. It is paper used to smuggle the answers into exam sessions. The angle that makes it popular is contact with moisture, enabling pupils caught cheating to swallow the evidence.

LONDON (AP)—Short of a screwdriver, there's no sure-fire instrument for detecting concealed nuclear weapons, a government official told the House of Commons Monday.

John Profumo, minister of state for foreign affairs, told a Laborite questioner the only way he knew how to find a nuclear weapon sealed in a crate would be to use a screwdriver. Assumably he meant the device would have to be taken apart.

Bell Fights 3-Million Cut in Its Tolls

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Southern Bell Telephone Co., armed with more witnesses, today goes into the second round of a fight to block a threatened 3 million dollar a year rate cut.

The hearing is before the Public Service Commission on a PSC show-cause order as to why Bell should not trim its rates. The PSC contends the utility earned more last year than it should have by making a rate of return of 8 percent.

The company countered by contending it got only a 5 1/2 percent return in 1958 and asked for a $425,000 fringe increase under a 1953 schedule fixed by the PSC.

Arkansas utilities customarily earn about 6 to 6 1/2 percent on their investments.

The hearing opened June 30 and lasted two days, with Bell presenting what the PSC later called almost worthless testimony. Bell then asked for a recess to gather more witnesses.

After Bell winds up its arguments, the PSC will present its side through cross-examination of Bell witnesses and through experts of its own.

PSC members are Lewis M. Robinson of Pine Bluff, John Malone of Lonoke and J. R. Thompson of Little Rock.

Bell, in the first phase of the hearing, presented a dozen witnesses. But PSC member Robinson said it had given nothing but "earned" records of evidence, which were available some months earlier.

This came after the utility began talking about moving the case up to a September hearing.

Edward L. Wright, company attorney, said that under the 1953 rate schedule Bell had "lost millions of dollars" because inflation had reduced the dollar value. He said the 6 percent rate of return was inadequate at that time and "far from adequate today."

Civil Righters May Bypass Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Strategy to bypass the Senate Judiciary Committee on any civil rights legislation received added support over the weekend.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told newsmen he would support a move to intercept a civil rights bill—if one is passed by the House—and place it directly on the Senate's legislative calendar.

The ordinary procedure would be to refer the bill to the Judiciary Committee, where civil rights measures have been stymied in the past.

But Dirksen made it clear he thought the responsibility for taking the lead on such a measure rests with Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader.

Johnson has slated civil rights action for this session of congress, but has not said what strategy he has in mind to get it. He voted against such a parliamentary shortcut when the 1957 civil rights act was passed.

Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-NJ) said such a shortcut is the only possibility for Senate action. Case, a leading advocate of civil rights legislation, said in a television interview that if a civil rights measure gets into the hands of the Judiciary Committee "it is in the graveyard—there's no doubt about that."

The committee bypass strategy has mentioned frequently by some of the other civil rights proponents as their only hope for action this session.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-NC) told a reporter he believes the only demand for civil rights legislation comes from organizations "that make a profession of demanding civil rights bills." Ervin said the demand is "purely synthetic and for political purposes."

on a petition by Louisiana Atty. Gen. Jack P. F. Gremillion, and set the special tribunal date as July 22. Gremillion had described his petition as the "first aggressive action" against the commission.

The six-member commission, headed by President John A. Hanft of Michigan State University, came here to study complaints of north Louisiana Negroes who alleged registrars had unlawfully deprived them of their rights to vote.

The commission, after unsuccessfully sending investigators to question the registrars, subpoenaed the registrars and their records.

Gremillion said he believed the judge's order did not stop the commission from meeting, but served only to prevent it from quizzing the registrars.

TAKE THAT! AND THAT!
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Mrs. Jeanette Barrett walked into her Tucson home and met a burglar face to face.

The 76-year-old woman chased him out the front door, picked up a stick and hit him over the head three times. The thief staggered off but was arrested a short time later.

Summons of Registrars Canceled

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—A federal judge canceled the appearance of 7 voters registrars before a U.S. Civil Rights Commission hearing today and asked that a three-judge panel test the law creating the commission.

District Judge Ben C. Dawkins Jr. said rules of the hearing denied the registrars their constitutional rights to know their charges, confront witnesses and cross-examine accusers.

Judge Dawkins added there was also a "serious question" raised about the validity of the act establishing the commission. He said he would leave that to the three-judge court.

The judge late yesterday granted a temporary restraining order closed on Sundays.
